Dear Principals, Faculties, Students and Families,

As we prepare to celebrate the birth of Jesus and coming of the new year, I pray with all my colleagues in Catholic education in the Archdiocese of New York the spirit of the season stays with you and yours through the school break and beyond.

Being part of this more than 200-year-old legacy of faith-based education in New York is a source of joy in and of itself. Knowing how hard our devoted principals, faculty and staff work to create a culture of learning is humbling. Seeing the results of such dedication in the ever-improving performance of our students is inspiring.

As we gather together for the holidays, let us celebrate this wonderful extended family of which we are all blessed to be a member. Our community is welcoming, diverse and kind. We provide our children with the tools necessary to succeed in life and instill in them Catholic values. All of this can only be accomplished through the partnerships we are all so grateful to experience.

Thank you for playing an essential role in Catholic education in the Archdiocese of New York. I wish your family a peaceful and blessed Christmas, and a safe, healthy New Year.

Sincerely,

Superintendent of Schools
Archdiocese of New York
